

White Mirror - Episode 7: D.Red Pill

The episode opens with Monkey at the Boom Festival in Portugal in 2010, taking LSD for the first time with Rooster, marking the start of an intense psychedelic trip. The opening sequence mixes quotes on drugs and revolution, culminating with Yoda announcing the meeting of "D.ream" and "D.Truth."

Monkey consults a psychologist in Paris, sharing his "structured delusion" post-trip and expressing his depression. The psychologist finds him fascinating.

A satirical ad contrasts alcohol and weed: drunk and coked-up youths (future bankers) destroy objects, versus friends (future DTC members) playing a smoky RPG, promoting regulation.

Monkey calls Wolf to apologize for a recent bad trip, flashback to a violent crisis. Wolf reassures him, recalling their friendship.

An ad parodies "Mercurochrome" as "Adrenochrome," mocking elites extracting adrenochrome from children.

210 years after the Announcement, teen Truth Seekers smoke with IAC Monkey, discussing historical drugs, lobbies, and his Portugal trip (weed, LSD, mescaline). Monkey refuses to show the full trip, respecting DTC rules, and quotes a Buddha on excess.

An ad from Elon Musque announces Mars colonization in 2036 via SpaceY.

Flashback to the Boom lake: Monkey, Birdy, and Rooster contemplate a huge moon, Monkey mesmerized.

Post-credits: South Park's Towelie (Servietsky) settles in for "the Announcement episode," smoking a bong.

Themes: Psychedelic trips, addictions, critique of lobbies and elites, spiritual awakening in the DTC.